

Case study

"I used the Truecaller Ad Manager to promote one of our businesses in India, the process was very smooth. It took me approximately 5 minutes to create an advertiser account and launch the first campaign, performance reporting is also self-explanatory. The platform does not require any special marketing knowledge and skills to run it."

Truecaller is one of the world's most popular smartphone apps for Caller ID, spam blocking and payments. Today, Truecaller is loved by over 150 million daily active users around the world.

With Truecaller's mobile advertising platform, brands are provided with a unique opportunity to engage millions of active users all over the world.

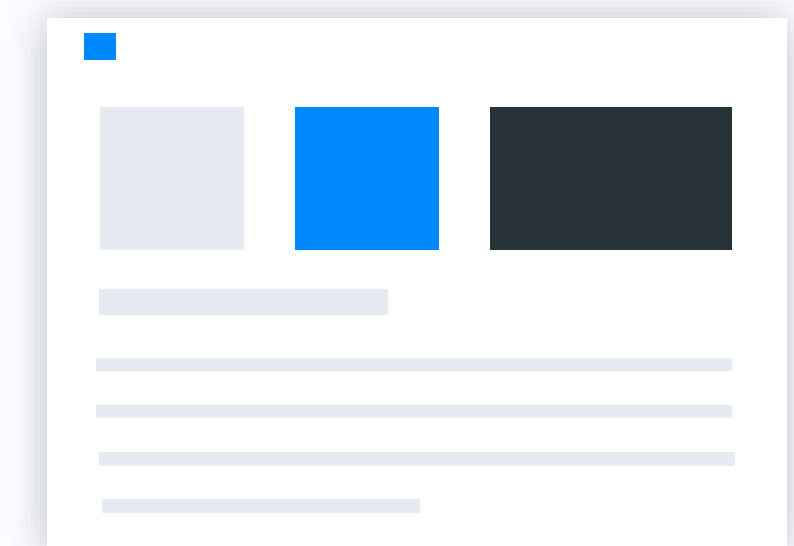

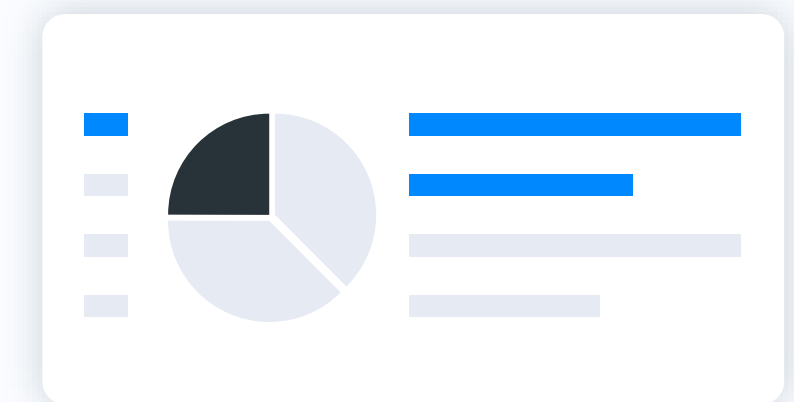

Selling direct deals in a scalable way to small and medium advertisers in India

- Truecaller sold most of their ad inventory through programmatic, missing out on the opportunity to increase sales through direct deals, increasing CPM and margins. To target large volume markets such as India with direct sales to small and medium advertisers, a large number of resources for Sales and AdOps would be required, making it difficult to reach profitability. Truecaller therefore looked for a way to offer direct sales of their ad inventory to large volume markets in a scalable and cost-efficient way.

Growing advertising sales without needing to increase Sales or AdOps

- By offering a fully automated self-service platform for advertisers and brands looking to advertise to Truecaller's more than 150 million daily active users, Truecaller could scale their advertising direct sales for all geographic markets, and only needed to allocate limited internal resources to manage the self-service platform, achieving the cost-efficiency required for the high volume, low budget, markets they operate in.

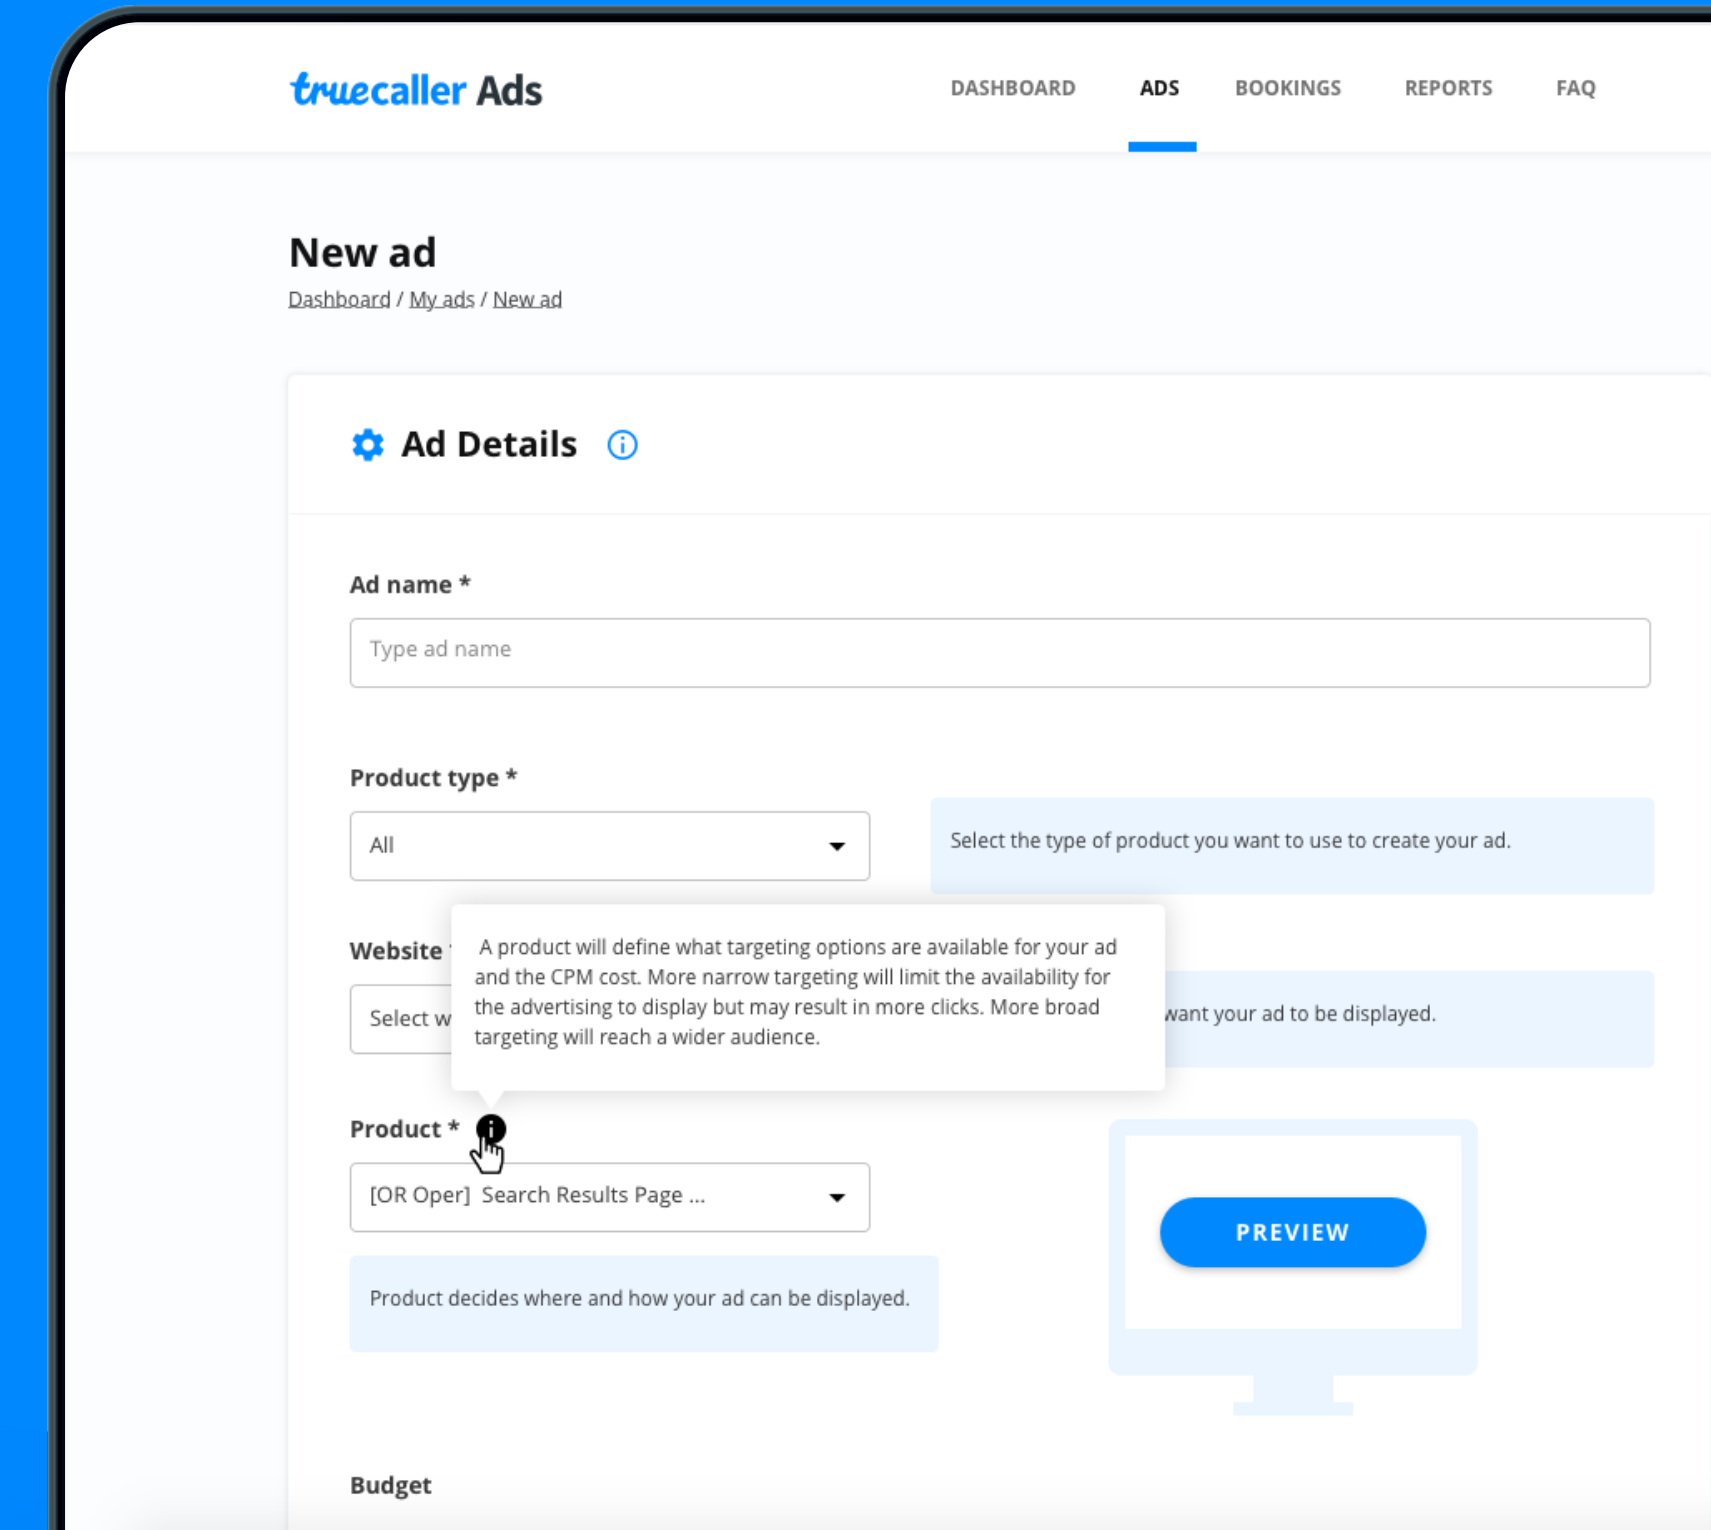

Delivering a branded and customised self-service advertising platform for Truecaller

- Truecaller engaged DanAds to develop and launch Truecaller Ad Manager, a Truecaller branded and customised self-service advertising platform based on DanAds white-label self-service advertising platform. In Truecaller Ad Manager advertisers can create campaigns directly in the platform and reach Truecaller users by using targeting such as location, time of day, Smartphone OS, Carrier, and User categories.
- Advertisers are able to create native adverts directly in the platform with call to action-buttons to increase conversion, and with their ads showing up as themed notifications for incoming and missed calls in the Truecaller app.

"I also enjoyed the audience targeting settings and the Native ad feature, so you craft a creative on the go without designer involvement."
